Dear colleagues,

I am pleased to announce you the EMBO workshop on "Biological Implications of Macromolecular Crowding" to be held in 14-18 June 2003 in Las Navas del Marqués, Avila, Spain. The workshop program has been planned to call attention to the broad variety of biochemical and biophysical phenomena influenced by macromolecular crowding, and to be of interest to both theoreticians and experimentalists.

Further information about the current stage of the workshop can be found at the workshop web page available at the following URL address:
